20 September 1949

- Twenty Pe-2s, twelve of them without gun positions and eight with them were parked at the BAD VOESLAU airfield. There was no flying. According to local residents, flying has not been done regularly.

14 October 1949

- The field was occupied by 16 Pe-2s. Two of these took off at 2 p.m. and flew the VOESLAU - GLOGGNITZ (O 48/X 13) route in both directions for two hours at an altitude of about 13,000 feet. Six other planes of this type took off about 3 p.m. and made local flights. According to local residents, local flying has recently been observed every day.
- The following quarters were occupied by Soviet Air Force troops:

Comment:

- a. The field has been assumed to be occupied by an air reconnaissance regiment equipped with Pe-2s and Yak-3s. Since no aircraft were observed at the field between mid-July and early August 1949, the regiment was assumed to be transferred. According to this report, the field is again occupied by Pe-2s. It is notable that no fighters were observed. Therefore, it cannot be stated whether the regiment now stationed at the field is the same as the air reconnaissance regiment located there up to July 1949. Its identification is made 25X1C more difficult by the appearance of new motor vehicle
- b. The units quartered in the various BAD VOESLAU buildings have not been identified.
